

Speech Therapy

Megan Clarke from Speech Bubble Therapy has devised a training package for teachers and teaching support staff to gain a better understanding of Speech Language and Communication Needs (SLCN) and the impact this has on education, behaviour and SEMH development.

The training would be relevant for early years and KS1 staff, but could also be applied to KS2 staff in terms of evidence and ideas/strategies.

This programme consists of:

- Gaining greater insight and understanding of the difficulties faced by children with SLCN
- Strategies to support children with SLCN on a day-to-day basis
- Review of case studies; what SLCN looks like in a classroom setting.
